

School Girl Sentenced As Spy

Lucy Boehmler, 19-year-old High school girl who confessed that she was a German spy and later became the government's star witness in the trial of seven other Nazi agents, is pictured leaving federal court in New York City with a deputy marshal after she was sentenced to five years in prison.

(By Associated Press)
Russia's armies, crowding the Germans off balance before Adolf Hitler can launch his spring offensive, were reported storming against four key Nazi bases on the 1,200-mile front today, and a Vichy radio broadcast declared Soviet troops had already fought their way into Staraya Russa.

Other Russian assaults were aimed at Bryansk, Kharkov and Taganrog. Staraya Russa, 150 miles below Leningrad, is the base headquarters of the trapped German 16th army which has been cut off for weeks in the frozen marshlands around Lake Ilmen.

A bulletin from Hitler's field headquarters acknowledged the increasing violence of Russian assaults, declaring that Nazi troops had beaten off six fierce attacks yesterday southeast of Lake Ilmen, in the Staraya Russa sector, but gave no details on the fate of Staraya Russa itself.

"Many dead were left on the field and numerous prisoners were taken," a German communique said. The high command also conceded that the Russians were pressing the offensive in the Crimea, in the Donets river basin of the Ukraine, and on the central (Moscow) and northern (Leningrad) fronts.

From Vichy, Leningrad and Moscow came details—reports that Red army troops had penetrated Kharkov fortifications but were forced back; that there was hard fighting north of Taganrog. Azov sea anchor of the German lines; that many Germans were killed and 10 blockhouses were demolished on the Leningrad front.

A family row within the axis—revival of old animosities between Rumania and Hungary—was indicated by reports to Bern.

The quarrel developed with a declaration by Prof. Mihail Antonescu, foreign minister of Rumania, that the dispute over Transylvania, part of which was awarded to Hungary through Axis arbitration in 1940, was far from settled in Rumania's view.

U. S. TO VARY ROUTES OF OFFENSE

GEN. M'ARTHUR
IS ACCLAIMED
IN MELBOURNE

Promises He'll Do Best To Carry Allied Cause
To Success

PAYS TRIBUTE TO
AUSSIE SOLDIERS

Meanwhile, Another Japanese
Cruiser Is Sunk
At Rabaul

(By Associated Press)
MELBOURNE, Australia, March 21.—General Douglas MacArthur today rode triumphantly into Melbourne and promptly promised the cheering thousands who gave him a hero's welcome that he would do his best to carry the cause of the United Nations to "ultimate success."

"I shall keep a soldier's faith," General MacArthur declared simply in a short speech.

The demonstration for the hero of Bataan, deeply tanned after his days in the Philippines, was one of the greatest in the history of this commonwealth.

Meanwhile, the burning and sinking of a Japanese heavy cruiser by Allied bombers yesterday in a daring daylight attack on Rabaul, New Britain, was reported by Prime Minister John Curtin.

A communique said a direct hit was scored on the cruiser from a great height and several near misses were seen. All Allied bombers were reported to have returned safely.

The amazing journey of General MacArthur with his family which started in extreme secrecy behind the Japanese lines on the beleaguered Philippines, ended in the sudden flare of pomp and public acclaim at Melbourne's Spencer street railway station.

The Australians, still thrilled by the general's statement yesterday that a grand Allied attack would supplant the present defense warfare, gave a great yell when the broad-shouldered supreme commander of the United Nations stepped from the Adelaide express.

General MacArthur paid tribute to the Australian soldiers in his short talk to the welcoming throng.

"I am glad indeed to be in immediate cooperation with the Australian soldier," he said. "I know him well from World war days and admire him greatly."

Touches On Coming Struggle
Then he touched in a general manner on the coming struggle.

"I have every confidence in the ultimate success of our joint cause, but success in modern war requires something more than courage and willingness to die," the general said. "It requires careful preparation."

"This demands furnishing sufficient troops and sufficient material to meet the known strength of a potential enemy."

"No general can make something out of nothing. My success in the future will depend primarily upon the sources which the respective governments place at my disposal."

"In any event, I shall do my best. I shall keep a soldier's faith."

It was not known how long General MacArthur and his family would remain in Melbourne, but he took quarters at a hotel, declining many offers to stay at private homes in the city.

The impending arrival of the general and his family had been treated as a military secret until last night when a spokesman for the U. S.

DOCTORS PLAN TO GUARD HOME FRONT

Draft Program To Meet
Situation Caused By Army Calls

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, March 21.—The Ohio State Medical association reported today a program designed to safeguard health on the "home front" despite heavy military enlistments of physicians.

Association spokesmen estimated that 750 Ohio physicians already had been commissioned, and that the expanding army would require double that number this year.

They explained the military demand for physicians was so great that most of those in Ohio under 26 years of age and physically fit could look forward to service before year-end.

Of nearly 10,000 physicians surveyed by the association, about 3,600 are under 45 and subject to call for active duty under the Selective Service Act. Some 2,030 of those are under 36, the age bracket favored by military branches.

Some communities have been hard pressed to maintain adequate medical service because of the enlistments, the association reported. Mansfield observers estimated that because the average age of physicians there was under the state level, half of the city's 55 practicing physicians would enter service.

To prevent a breakdown in medical service because of enlistments, the association evolved a plan for transferring older practitioners to those localities where feasible.

"Physicians over 45 will have to take over more and more responsibilities in providing professional services for selective service boards, public health agencies, civilian defense organizations, and similar home-front groups," spokesmen added.

Enlistments have been sufficient to forestall drafting of Ohio physicians, the association reported.

4-H To Mobilize

Columbiana county 4-H clubs will join the observance of 4-H Club Mobilization day April 5, leaders pointed out today, after Gov. John W. Bricker proclaimed the day when the farm youth organizations in the state would meet to plan victory programs.

At the present time, 4-H clubs throughout the county are reorganizing and planning programs for the year.

U. S. Territory In That Area Is Only 700 Miles From Japan's Kuriles; Great Circle Not Forgotten By Tokyo, Either

BY GLENN BABB
Associated Press Foreign Staff

NEW YORK, March 21.—America's military leaders are giving increasing indication that the eventual offensive against Japan will come from more than one direction, lending weight to speculation that one assault may follow the pathway of Japan's northern islands, the Kuriles.

General Douglas MacArthur, in Australia, speaks of an offensive from the south—"I came through (the Japanese front in the East Indies)—and I will return."

Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, in Chungking, pictures "American and Chinese troops in Tokyo together"—the climax of a drive from the west.

Evidence grows also that neither in Washington nor Tokyo has the northern route, the great circle along the Pacific's rim, been forgotten.

There is a potential battleground much closer home for both sides than the Australian zone—7,000 miles from San Francisco, 4,000 from Tokyo. Thus far the north has been peaceful but with spring it will demand increasing attention.

On the north, United States territory is only 700 miles from the Mikado realm—a fifth as far as the Japanese moved to smash at Pearl Harbor, less than a tenth of the span covered by the legions pouring across the southern Pacific to join MacArthur.

Realize Defense Phases Not Ended Yet

The Americans make no pretense of believing that the defensive phase of the Pacific war is ended; they confess there may be hard blows to be taken before the tide turns. But plainly they are thinking far ahead, giving deep study to every possible avenue of attack.

"There also is no guarantee that a bitter defensive battle may not have to be fought along the Aleutian-Alaskan-Canadian route before the United Nations can attack. The preparations now under way in western Canada and Alaska have defensive purposes as well as offensive. The northern route offers dangers as great as its opportunities."

The 700 miles mentioned above is the distance between Attu, westernmost of the United States Aleutians, and Shumushu, northernmost of Japan's Kuriles. The former might be the pathway of a Japanese foray against Alaska and Canada, the latter the route of an American descent on Japan's home islands.

There is little doubt that before the vast Pacific war runs its course those volcano-pocked islands and the cold foggy seas that wash them will see plenty of warplanes and fighting ships and perhaps armies.

The question is which will strike first.

What Japan may be doing is of course hidden.

Some of the things we are doing are known to the world: The building of a naval base at Dutch Harbor, in the Aleutians; the construction of bases in Alaska; the pushing of the Alaska highway through Canada's northwest provinces; the strengthening of defenses all along the broken, island-flecked coasts of British Columbia and Alaska.

But for many years the Japanese side of the island bridge across the northern sea has been hidden from alien eyes. However, it is not altogether unknown to us. The sky trail that the flying vanguards of an American armada moving on Japan from the northeast would travel was first blazed 18 years ago this spring by three planes of the United States army, commanded by Captain Lowell H. Smith.

In the next seven years many airmen tried the northern crossing but none succeeded until 1931, when it was accomplished three times—by the late Wiley Post and his Australian navigator, Harold Gatty, over the far northern Alaska-Siberia route, Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh over the Aleutian-Kuriles route, and Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon.

In 1934 Admiral Nobumasa Suoyetsugu, commander in chief of Japan's battle fleet, guardedly charged in a magazine article that Lindbergh's mission was espionage.

Since then the Kuriles have been a closed preserve to white men. But non-Japanese authorities have reason for believing that the Japanese have established there bases for both flying boats and land planes, naval stations with docking and repair facilities for small warcraft and an extensive system of weather and radio stations, including radioteletype to warn of approaching planes.

Sherman, Deputy Sheriff Howard Clark said, was arrested after he attempted to borrow food and money from farmers on the Lisbon-Leontina road.

FARMERS TURN IN SCRAP FOR 'SCRAP'

Twenty-eight Tons Junked
Metal Collected In Butler Twp.

Columbiana county farmers are really "getting into the scrap" by turning in tons after tons of scrap metal so that the United States soldiers might have adequate fighting material.

Floyd Lower, Columbiana county agricultural agent, who is chairman of the scrap roundup in the rural areas of the county, disclosed today that if the campaign continues as it is, enough metal will be collected to net about $15,000.

As an example, he pointed out that 28 tons of junked metal were collected in Butler township alone in the three days that the campaign was pushed during the past week.

Equally good reports have been received from Perry, Knox, Unity, Yellow Creek and Middleton townships.

The scrap metal will be sought in Center, Salem, Fairfield, Hanover, Franklin and Madison township beginning Monday, he said.

The pickups are being made by county and state highway department trucks.

Man Who Reverses Tithing
Program Speaks Here Sunday

Robert G. LeTourneau Donates Nine-Tenths, Instead Of One

Robert G. LeTourneau, millionaire manufacturer and Christian layman, will make three addresses in Salem Sunday.

Brought here by the Salem Ministerial association, Mr. LeTourneau will appear first at the morning service of the First Baptist church, starting at 10:45.

At 3 p. m. he will speak at a city-wide youth rally in the same church and at 7:30 p. m. will address a mass meeting in the High school auditorium.

In addition to the speaker's messages, the programs will include special music by soloists and the Carolina Gospel Singers' quartet. The quartet already has made three appearances in local churches this week.

Termed America's No. 1 Christian layman, Mr. LeTourneau gives nine-tenths of his income for religious purposes, financing the LeTourneau foundation which promotes evangelistic activities. He leads regular worship services in his own factory at Peoria, Ill.

THAT'S THE SPIRIT!

One hundred workers in a Detroit aluminum factory added an extra half hour to their eight-hour shift one night as a tribute to Gen. MacArthur. Take all the even money bets you can find that the example will be followed—and not just for one night.

This is the spirit that will keep the United States from losing the war. It's the spirit that has been bubbling up from 'way down for a long time. It's beginning to make itself felt at last.

All that's needed to make it the most dynamic thing of its kind on earth is a good hot spark to set it aflame. The spark will be provided by someone, somewhere. Perhaps it already has been provided, but hasn't caught yet.

Gen. MacArthur has done a lot. A handful of heroes here and there on the battlefields have done more than their share. The spirit that is going to transform America is there and is going to be heard from—just like the "shot heard 'round the world" when government by the people was founded.

It couldn't be any other way. Americans were willing to string along with isolation and defensive attitudes when that was the thing to do. They were willing to take a chance on letting Great Britain do the fighting while it did the producing of weapons at a fat profit when that was the thing to do. But things are different now. Americans are doing the whole job. It's like fighting a war on an assembly line; Americans are putting the stuff together, then running down to the place where the finished product rolls off and grabbing it to fight with. This isn't somebody else's war now, with the United States getting the stuff for the combatants wholesale. It's this country's war.

Every time that fact has settled another quarter of an inch into national consciousness, there has been a change. One of the changes is occurring now. The transformation is making individuals and crowds of individuals want to know how much they can do for the national war effort, instead of how little. This country is out of neutral and picking up speed in low gear. Before the end of this year, it will be careening along in second, getting ready to shift into high—and watch out for flying Axis when that happens.

Forget about the quibbles and squabbles and the blabbermouths who wonder whether to crack eggs on the little end or the big end. Quit worrying about the toe dancers and bump analysts and pickle wart experts who have such a nasty habit of getting into the foreground and blotting out the view. They aren't the spirit of America in 1942. They are the same crowd that got in the way in 1776 and 1865 and 1918.

The people who matter are rarely in the foreground, but when they do get there they look mighty good. Generals like MacArthur who know how to do what all generals are supposed to know how to do. Businessmen like Donald Nelson who pitch into the thankless job of government administration. Workers who get fed up with a lot of guff about their negative rights and begin to think seriously about their positive rights—such as putting in a few extra fancy licks for the United States of America. Employers who quit worrying about getting caught with their stocks down and start worrying about winning the war for their side. Soldiers who give their job a little of "that old college try" which has become the characteristic of Americans in competition.

These are the Americans who are going to win the war. They are beginning to take over—and high time.

SOURCE OF THE CRITICISM

The President's attempt to shrug off a minor uprising in the house of representatives over the 40-hour week as much ado about nothing doesn't click the way it would have clicked a year ago. Contrary to his assertion on the matter, the people do not misunderstand the law. They know it does not restrict employment to 40 hours; they also know that for more than 40 hours it imposes penalties that in many cases have the effect of making 40 hours the maximum and in many other cases make taxpayers pay through the nose for essential war production.

The President will be well advised if he quits trying to stem the flood of labor criticism in Washington and asks his advisers to run up a report for him on the sources of the criticism out where the people live.

THE STARS SAY:

For Sunday, March 22

SUNDAY'S horoscope may be read as dramatic, with presage of unusual and thrilling developments, in which large and bold issues are at stake. This may be in relations to promotion, honors, favors or other tokens of public as well as private approbation, in which rich rewards are promised by higher-ups or employers. Such benefices should not be negated by tempestuous, erratic, impulsive acts or manifestations of overwrought nerves or emotional stresses. Beware betrayals.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of thrilling events in which promotion, preferments, honors and the friendship of those in high places are imminent. But do not let this lead to impetuous or over-emotional conduct. Be calm and alert to some duplicity or fraud, especially with writings or documents.

A child born on this day may be impetuous, enthusiastic, overwrought and erratic, due to nervous tension and strange emotional stresses, which may work to its detriment. It may suffer from fraud, deception and treachery.

For Monday, March 23

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is based upon the predominant influence of the two "major benefices" of astrology which promise great prosperity, good fortune, much personal prestige, popularity and gratification. All things move toward such benevolent and happy goals, with personal and business ambitions attaining rich fruition. But beware extravagance, excess and envy.

Those whose birthday it is may be on the threshold of a most progressive, prosperous and happy year, with all things advancing upon the goals of heart's desire. There should be much friendly and social as well as romantic activity with festivity, hospitality and conviviality reaching high spots of gaiety. But beware prodigality, extravagance, over excesses, that may invite jealousy.

A child born on this day should be bounteously endowed with all the graces and skills for a high place in artistic, literary or professional life. It should enjoy much prestige and happiness.

INSPIRATION FOR ALLIES

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Wide World War Analyst

General MacArthur's announcement that President Roosevelt has ordered him to prepare an offensive against Japan is calculated to emphasize that Washington is determined to implement its policy of initiative, which is giving the Allies hearty inspiration at this critical juncture of the war.

Just to make sure there's no misunderstanding, we get an immediate echo from American Lieut. General Stilwell, commander of United States forces in China, Burma and India. Says the general: "The United States means business and we won't be satisfied until we see American and Chinese troops in Tokyo together."

On the whole the position in the southwest Pacific looks considerably more healthy. This doesn't mean that America is throwing everything into the Orient, or lessening its aid to the Allies in other theatres.

It's good to hear talk of offensives. However, we shall make a great mistake if we jump to the conclusion that any major offensive is likely to be started in the immediate future. General Stilwell performs a service when he warns against impatience while the Allies are mustering their forces.

plished. Glamour is essentially good health, and certainly to be glamorous you have to be healthy, but not all healthy people are glamorous. Mr. Hunt's rules for health are sound enough and you may want to try out some of the less usual ones.

He has a chapter on "Eating" in which he gives a four-day reducing diet. The first day is as follows:

Lunch: Broiled steak, trimmed; lettuce salad, with tomatoes, celery and celery; one raw apple.

Dinner: Two soft or hard-boiled eggs; string beans (medium portion); one-half grapefruit.

Breakfast is not mentioned, you are not supposed to eat breakfast on any reducing day.

There is a chapter on "The Complexion of Glamour," others on "Beautiful Teeth and Eyes," "Beautiful Hands and Feet," "Hair Care," and several pages of exercises with good illustrations.

Questions And Answers

Mrs. J. K. Butler, Pa.: "What is Meniere's disease, its cause and cure?"

Answer: Meniere's disease is a dizziness or vertigo due to some disturbance of the equilibrium organ of the inner ear. It occurs most commonly in those past middle age, and in these is probably due to degeneration of the arteries in the semi-circular canals. Sometimes it is caused by local infection from bad teeth or bad tonsils lighting on the equilibrium organ. It is often relieved by sedatives and rest. But in severe cases it is necessary to do resection of the nerve going to the semi-circular canal.

J. T. D.: "Would an aniline hair dye cause eye trouble — cloudy vision?"

Answer: Many cases of this kind have been reported. It is very important that you investigate an aniline hair dye before using it.

Trinity Lutherans
List Services For
5th Sunday In Lent

"Cannot I Pray" will be the sermon topic of Rev. George D. Keister at the Holy Trinity English Lutheran church tomorrow at 11 o'clock. Tomorrow is the fifth Sunday in Lent.

Other services for the following week are as follows:

The church school meets at 9:45 with classes for persons of all ages. The lesson subject is, "Christ's Words on the Cross", based on the Scripture lessons, St. Mark 15:33-34; St. Luke 23:33-34. Further religious instruction will be given to children from ages 5 to 12, at 11 a. m. in the Sunday school room, in the organization "The Children of the Church."

"The modern spirit is very practical indeed. It may not accept the suggestion that prayer can change things and people. There is the present emphasis that if something needs to be done, then it is the work and responsibility of man to do it. This is the trend of humanism in religious thought. God is often ruled out as a source of help and a means of rescue. It is very true that God does not encourage man to become helpless, when he has been given the means of working out his problems, yet this must not be carried to the extreme that places all responsibility into the hands of man. Prayer is a source of help and inspiration. Jesus recognized it as the open door to the throne of grace. He would not rely upon the sword of Peter. There was His resource of heaven."

Luther league, 6:30. Devotional topic, "John, The Faithful". Leader, Rachel Keister.

Confirmants' rally at St. Luke's church, Youngstown, 3 p. m. Confirmants are to meet at the church at 2 p. m.

"Matter" Chosen As
Topic For Scientists

"Matter" is the subject of the lesson sermon which will be read at the morning worship of the Christian Science Society tomorrow at 11 a. m. The Sunday service is also broadcast over station WCLE (610 kil.) Cleveland the first and third Sundays of each month at 11 a. m.

Sunday school for pupils up to the age of 20 years is held at 9:30 a. m.

Golden Text: "The fashion of this world passeth away" (1 Corinthians 7:31).

Included in the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon are the following correlative passages from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "But the day of the Lord will come as a thief in the night; in which the heavens shall pass away with a great noise, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat, the earth also and the works that are therein shall be burned up. Nevertheless we, according to His promise, look for new heavens and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness" (II Peter 3:10, 13). "The more destructive matter becomes, the more its nothingness will appear, until matter reaches its mortal zenith in illusion and forever disappears. He uttered His voice, the earth melted."

The midweek service is held the first Wednesday of each month at the church at 8 p. m.

This society maintains a reading room at 136 S. Broadway where the Bible and all authorized Christian Science literature may be read, borrowed or purchased. Open from 1:30 to 4 p. m. on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, and from 7 to 9 p. m. on Saturday.

A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend the services and visit the reading room.

Youngstown Is Site
Of Confirmand Rally

The members of the confirmation classes of the Lutheran churches of the Synod of Ohio of the United Lutheran Church in America will meet at St. Luke's Lutheran church of Youngstown for the Confirmands' rally at 3 p. m. Sunday.

This rally will include the churches of Leetonia, Greenford, Washingtonville, Sebring, North Georgetown, Warren, Lordstown, New Middletown, New Springfield, Youngstown and Holy Trinity church of Salem.

The confirmands from Holy Trinity church of Salem are: Joyce DeWan, Georgiana DeRhodes, Ann Heim, David Ritchie, Gertrude Wilms, and Donna Youtz.

This rally is one of 14 to be held in the Synod of Ohio.

The sermon for the rally will be preached by Rev. G. D. Keister of Salem on the theme, "The Household of God"—Ephesians 2:19-22.

Each confirmand will receive a confirmation token from the Lutheran league of the Synod of Ohio.

tion of the boys and girls in the confirmation classes will take place. This examination service starts at 7:45. It seems that the examination of the Catechumens is just as beneficial to the adult congregation as to the children. We invite the entire congregation to this service.

A Christian's Debt
A Christian owes to the community to move through the streets on Sunday morning toward the house of God. Every face turned churchwards Sunday morning leaves an impression on the life of the town. If no one went to church and everyone glued his ear to the radio, public worship would vanish and spiritual Christianity would gradually fade away. Religion is a social thing, and in its Christian form it is impossible for it to survive if men hold aloof from one another. "For-sake not the assembling of yourselves together," is an old exhortation which all the generations will do well to heed.

Announcements
On Wednesday the children of the Senior confirmation class will meet at the church at 4 p. m.

Thursday at 7:45 p. m.—Special Lenten service. After the Lenten service the Daughters of Emmanuel will have a short business meeting.

On Friday morning at 9 o'clock all the women of the congregation will meet at the church.

E. Palestine, Salem Couple Weds April 11

The date of the wedding of Miss Beatrice Hersman to Harold Fitzsimmons was announced at a surprise birthday party given in his honor by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Fitzsimmons of N. Ellsworth ave., at the Knotty Pine room in the Hotel Lape last night.

The bride-elect, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Hersman of East Palestine, and her fiancé are graduates of Salem High school, classes of 1940 and 1939, respectively.

The wedding will be an event of April 11.

The dinner and party honored the 21st birthday of Mr. Fitzsimmons. Announcements were concealed in small Easter favors. Tables were attractively decorated in orchid and yellow with spring flowers as a centerpiece with a large birthday cake.

Dancing and informal entertainment were enjoyed during the evening by guests, among whom were Russell Coppock of Columbiana and Ruth Dyke of Rogers.

Missionary Circle Is Entertained

Mrs. J. W. Whitton was hostess to the Esther H. Butler Missionary circle of the First Friends church at her home on E. Sixth st., Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Mary Myers was in charge of the devotional service. The program on "Prayer" featured articles read by Mrs. Andrew B. Starbuck, Mrs. Sylvester Jackson, Mrs. Dessie Scullion, Mrs. Charles O'Connell, Mrs. Mary Wachsmith and Mrs. L. I. Park.

Musical numbers included: Vocal duets, "Blessed Calvary," Mrs. Edgar Derr and Mrs. Rose Elton; piano, "Rock of Ages" and medley of patriotic airs, Mrs. J. W. Hundertmark, a guest.

The program was arranged by Mrs. Scott Herbert.

The group will meet again April 16 for a coverdinner at the church.

Rebekahs To Welcome District Leader

Plans for welcoming Mrs. Katherine Pyle of East Palestine, representative of District 28, here April 17 were made by Home lodge No. 110, Daughters of Rebekah in the hall last night.

The district officer will visit the lodge to discuss legislation which will be acted upon by the state organization at convention in Columbus in May.

Arrangements were discussed for the annual Mother-Daughter banquet in May. Mrs. Frank Hoskin was named program chairman and Mrs. L. S. Strawn, social chairman for the dinner.

Lunch was served after the session. The next meeting will be April 3.

Maids Of Salem, '42, Have Party

The Maids of Salem of '42 were entertained by Dolores Weichman last night at her home on the Pine Lake rd., when plans were completed for a party to be held at the home of Miss Miriam Seaman on E. Lincoln ave., and a "slumber party" during the school spring vacation. Definite arrangements will be made later.

The hostess entertained with vocal solos, "Calm Is The Night" (Bohm), "Jealous" and "Alice Blue Gown."

Lunch was served at a table appointed in green and yellow with lighted candles.

The next meeting will be held March 26 at the home of Miss Rose Marie Bates on the Goshen rd.

Eastern Star Anniversary Dinner Planned

A program and entertainment will follow the annual anniversary dinner of Eastern Star No. 334, Order of Eastern Star, at 6 p. m. Monday in the Masonic temple.

EVEN if your defense duties don't rate a uniform yet, you'll want to achieve a hair-do which won't get in your eyes in moments of intense effort. "HUTCH" OF THE R.A.F. by PETER MUIR

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

The German stiffened, got to his feet and paced the floor, all the while wiping his monocle industriously. Finally he spoke, and his voice was now soft, insinuating, hateful. "So. You believe in freedom. Well, well." Then he turned on David and his sharp face went livid with anger. In a raised voice he fairly shouted. "Your freedom is ended. Soon England will beg us on her knees for peace. And then, by Himmel, the Americas! Nazi Germany will dominate the world!"

The man's no idiot, Hutch thought, merely a fanatic. He really seemed to believe what he was saying, and as he spoke on it was apparent that he had forgotten the presence of a second person in the room. It was as if he were practicing a speech to be delivered at a political rally.

"We, the great German folk, superior to all other folk, will dominate. The fools who think they can oppose the will of Adolf Hitler. The fools who think they can oppose our might. The English fools—the American fools! Ha!" Again he began pacing violently back and forth across the room.

"We lost the battle of 1918, yes. But now we are a different Germany, a Germany strong, united, and led by Adolf Hitler. The battle of 1940 is a different matter. We will dominate the world."

Hutchinson coughed and the officer turned as if surprised. "Ah! I had forgotten you were here. You may go. I shall keep your papers."

As Hutch passed, Rusty he was able to whisper, "No funny business. You'll get solitary confinement."

The chateau was a two story building built around three sides of a square. Across the fourth side ran a high grille fence, and one passed over a very ancient drawbridge to enter. It had evidently been built in troublous times with a thought for defense. At present it made an excellent military prison, and as the two airmen were escorted inside both were thinking the same thing—that escape would be most difficult from such a place. The only windows gave onto the court, the outside walls being blank and solid.

At least they were to be allowed to remain together, and when they were finally left alone they began to look around the room to which they had been assigned.

"Looks as though we had company," Rusty observed. There were four cots in the room, and over two of them hung the belongings of French officers. On one military cap there was the single stripe of a second lieutenant, and on the other two stripes of a first lieutenant.

"At least they're young," Hutch said, after he had pointed this out to his friend.

The room was not large, and it was very sombre, no sunlight penetrating there at any time of the day. There were the four cots, and by each cot a kitchen chair. In the center of the room stood a bare table, over which hung a single electric bulb with no globe or shade. The floor was of large stones, worn away at places by the tread of feet over the centuries, and the only rug was a square, moth-eaten affair under the table. The walls were bare except where nails had been driven into them, to serve as clothes hooks, near the cots, and they had recently been whitewashed. Hutch said he believed the place had been temporarily arranged by the French as a hospital before the invasion.

"Let's look it over thoroughly," the American said, "before our room mates return."

They went over the walls inch by inch, tapping with their knuckles until they were raw. But the walls seemed solid. "Just as well try and dig through the Rock of Gibraltar," Rusty remarked.

"Not much chance there, I'm afraid. We might have a look-see at the floor, although it looks about as solid as the walls. These guys certainly built for the ages."

They searched over the floor as carefully as they had the walls, going under the cots in the corners, everywhere, trying to find a stone that could be budged from its place, but with no luck. They were tightly wedged into their places and the dust of time had been packed about them like mortar.

Finally it was Rusty who whistled a low, long note of surprise. "Hutch!"

Hutch crawled over to where he was. He had removed the table and the rug. "Look, Rusty, said, pointing to a large stone. 'They've put the dust back, but it isn't packed down.' He blew around the edges of another stone and nothing happened. He blew around the edges of this one and dust flew up into his face.

They were so absorbed by the discovery that they did not hear the door opened, but continued to examine the stone. Finally a voice spoke, "Messieurs!"

They looked around, startled, to see two young Frenchmen, one short and stocky, the other tall and lean, looking at them with angry expressions on their faces, standing in the doorway.

It was not until a week later that Wendy received the news of her brother's death and David's imprisonment. Arthur Stafford, as second in command of The Hornets, had reported the details of their battle over Brittany to the C. O. He had informed the War Office of the loss of three pilots, and they in turn passed on the news to the families of the lost men.

Hutch had given Lady Harrowsdale as one of the persons to be notified in case anything happened to him, wishing Wendy to learn of it through her mother and not directly.

Immediately on receipt of a telegram from Lord Harrowsdale, Wendy caught a train for The Downs. To say that she was crushed by this news would be a gross understatement. She felt that a part of her had been killed, as her love for Philip, now that he was gone, was even greater than she had believed possible. Poor old blundering, happy, courageous Phil! Tears rolled down her cheeks as she sat there in the train thinking of him, remembering all his odd little ways.

The thought that he would have preferred to die this way, fighting for his country, consoled her somewhat, and her mind turned to David Hutchinson. Regarding him she was amazed to find that she was not in the least downhearted.

He was not dead, and that was everything. He was only a prisoner, and instinctively she felt that he was already working to escape. Perhaps he had even now escaped. She knew he would succeed, and it would not have surprised her to see him come into the compartment, where she was seated, at that moment and say hello. Her confidence in his intelligence, courage, and daring was limitless.

How she loved him, how she wanted to see him again and feel herself melt into his strong embrace, pressing his hot lips hard against hers. Wendy sighed, forgetting for a moment the tragedy of her brother's death, forgetting even that her David was held in a German prison. She would speak plainly to her father about David.

The first maid, Norah, opened the door for Wendy when she arrived at The Downs and, at sight of her young mistress, the good woman broke into tears and began sobbing violently about "My poor Mister Philip." She had been a member of the household since the year of his birth, had seen both children grow up, and felt that they were her own, at least in part.

"Isn't it awful, Miss Wendy, I mean about the Germans killing my poor boy, and him so good and sweet? He wouldn't hurt a fly, he was that kind." Again she went off into a fit of weeping. "My poor Mister Philip! My poor Mister Philip! So kind and sweet."

Wendy put her arm around the old servant and tried to comfort her, determining herself to show no emotion, although the effort nearly killed her. She, too, would have liked to weep and weep, and only by great force of character did she manage to set the example of fortitude which she felt was necessary.

"There, there, Norah! Don't cry any more. My brother would have preferred to die this way, fighting for his country, fighting for liberty."

The maid continued to sniff and murmur. "And him so young and so brave," until Wendy, exhausted from the effort of controlling her own feelings, changed the subject, and moved into the library. It was tea time and she noticed a table, in front of a blazing log fire, was set for four persons. The family had naturally expected her to come as soon as she received their telegram, but—who was the fourth?

She put the question to Norah. "It's a foreign gentleman," she said. "Staying here, Miss Wendy, since yesterday. Her Ladyship told Peggy last night, while she was brushing her Ladyship's hair before bedtime, that he was a Dutch gentleman what had come to help catch the people what's doin' all the harm around here. They been blowing up things, and settin' fire to things, smeltin' awful this last few days, especially military things."

The maid's voice became confidential and dropped to what could be described as a stage whisper. "It ain't for us in the servant's hall to say what we likes and what we don't like, Miss Wendy, and you'll forgive me if I tells you that we don't like this Count de Beers, which is what he calls himself. He's got a thin, nasty face that's all cut up with scars, and a sneakin' manner, and the gardener says he's seen lights during the night comin' from the Counts' window when all ought to be blacked out. Began your pardon, Miss Wendy, for bein' so bold."

Further conversation between the young mistress and Norah as ended by the arrival at that moment of Lord and Lady Harrowsdale. Their greeting of Wendy was affectionate, but, like herself, they refused to show any outward emotion. While they appeared very grave, their self-control was a perfect example of what people of courage, descended from long lines of patriots, should be.

"Where is the Count?" Her Lordship addressed this question to Nora. Nora after he had embraced her, answered, "Said he had a headache, and needs air, your Lordship, and that he would be back in time to dress for dinner."

Wendy couldn't help wondering why the stranger had offered excuses, or given reasons to a servant for his comings and goings. This just wasn't done in England. However, instead of giving this further thought she shrugged her shoulders, guessed that it might be the custom in Holland, and suggested that it was time for tea.

Army Plane Crashes in California

Phonephoto

Partially buried in the mud of tidal flat in San Carlos, Calif., where it crashed is the wreckage of the Army plane in which Second Lieut. Mario L. Biava plunged to his death. Witnesses said the plane was flying at full throttle at about 500 feet when it looped and plunged into the mud. Flying above the scene of the tragedy is a Coast Guard plane.

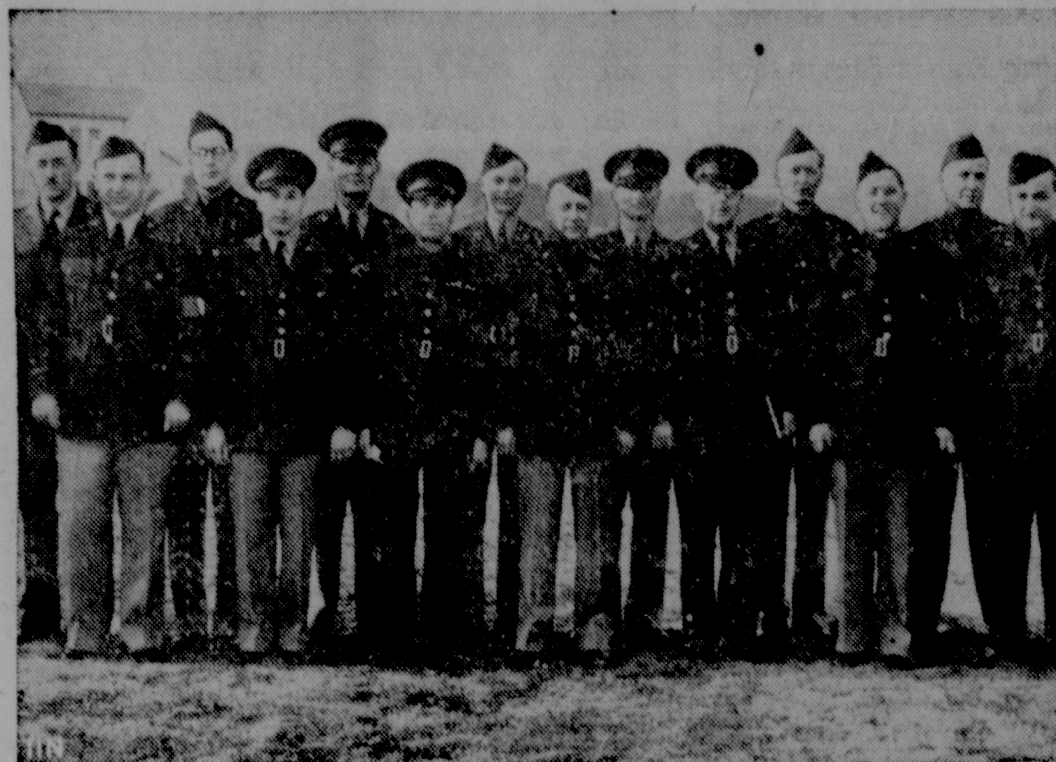

British Nip Axis Plans

Italian armored cars before administration building at Rhodes

Surprise British air and sea attack on the Italian island of Rhodes, largest in the Dodecanese group, which lie off the southwest coast of Turkey, damages one of the main bases which Adolf Hitler was believed planning to use for a spring flank attack against the Near East. Military observers said the attack was made to ward off an expected Axis assault on Cyprus and Syria, 430 miles to the east. The Dodecanese islands were taken from Turkey by Italy in 1912 and have been strongly fortified. The warship attack centered on the town of Rhodes on the island's northeast tip.

Richard G. Casey

Unprecedented appointment of Richard G. Casey, Australian minister to Washington, as a member of the British war cabinet, caused friction between Prime Minister Winston Churchill of Britain and Prime Minister John Curtin of Australia, according to a disclosure in Canberra, the Australian capital. Curtin told newsmen that Churchill had cabled, asking permission to name Casey minister of state in the Middle East on the war cabinet. Curtin requested Churchill not to approach Casey, feeling, he said, that Casey should remain in Washington. After another exchange of cables, Curtin told Churchill he believed the decision should be left to Casey.

Cadets Win Class B Title By Defeating Cavaliers, 34-32

GAME CLIMAXED BY SCULLION'S SCORE IN FINAL SECONDS

Freed, Rogers Star Again As Cadets Cop Game Hard Way

After leading throughout the entire game, the Cavaliers lost the final game of the playoff series to the Cadets when Paul Scullion tossed in two field goals in the last minute to give his team a 34-32 victory. The game had been a hard, fast one and was a little rough at stages.

The Cavs got away to a flying start as Art Horning got red hot in the opening period. His six points helped the Cavs to an 11-5 lead as the second quarter got under way. Don "Sal" Freed opened up in the second frame and the Cavs began to roll. Hitting a 10 point spree, they ran their lead to 21-13 at the intermission.

As the third quarter began, Jimmy Rogers began to pepper the hoop with an assortment of shots and soon the game became plenty tight. The Cavs' lead dwindled away as the Cadets took advantage of every break to score. With the period almost over, the count was 23-21 and each team dropped in a two pointer to make the score 25-28.

In the last quarter, Warren Tullis of the Cadets launched a one man victory bid. In less time that it takes to tell, he had tallied five points and tied up the game at 27-27. Freed and Theiss both dropped in buckets only to see them matched by Hanzlick and Tullis.

Time flew as the Cavs started to freeze the ball but a win for them was not in the cards. With one minute remaining, Scullion fired a long one through from the middle to knot the count and just a few seconds later he tallied the clincher on a cut play from the right side.

Jimmy Rogers, who went out on fouls in the third period, led the Cadets in the box score with 12 points, while Freed, Theiss and Horning played real ball for the losers. They had 11, nine and nine points, respectively.

Thus the Cadets are back on their perch as Class B champs. They succeeded the Saxons who held the crown last season.

Schlitz Five Rolls 3105 Total At ABC

COLUMBUS, March 21.—There's a definite "collar" atop the American Bowling Congress tournament team standings today.

Schlitz of Milwaukee foamed into second place last night with a 3105 total, only 26 behind the pace-setting Budweisers of Chicago.

But that wasn't all that bubbled. Allsports Equipment Co., of Flint Mich., scored 2930 for fourth and the Michigan Auto Club of Detroit rolled into fifth with 2904. The Adams Funeral home of Akron, O., is third with 2956.

The Schlitz bowlers put together games of 996, 1015 and 1094, their finale being the highest single game of the tournament.

In the singles, Robert Tritschler of Norwood, O., posted 731 to take over the lead, and Frank Puse of Detroit rolled 686 for fifth.

Shrews are the smallest mammals in North America.

With MacArthur

Rear Admiral Rockwell

Rear Admiral Francis W. Rockwell, who has been naval commander in the Philippine Islands, is now in Australia, having arrived with General Douglas MacArthur. Rockwell is expected to be given "an appropriate command, probably at sea."

No changes were recorded in the Federal league in last night's bowling at the Masonic temple. The league leading Meissners outfit shut out Beelers while the second place Sheens five stuck to the pace with a three game conquest of the K. of C.

With Pat Ciminelli showing the way, the Eagles tripped the Sanitary foremen three games. Ciminelli had games of 202 and 219 while Bateman had a 213 for the losers.

In the only other match of the evening, Brownies copped two from the Sanitary Shippers.

With Olive Ramsey setting a 567 pace, the Colonial Finance keggers boosted their Grate Ladies league lead with a shutout win over Kaufmans on the Grate alleys last night. Coys were unable to get going in their match and as a result dropped two to the A.A.A.

Schwartz's lost a little ground to the leaders although they tripped the Salem China twice while Eagles No. 1 bowed to Eagles No. 2 three games. In other matches, Haldis shut out the Trades Class and Endres-Gross took a pair from Hi-Ho.

Ritchie, Scullion Shine In Hi-Y Win

The Salem Hi-Y club advanced to the finals of the annual Hi-Y cage tourney as they downed Excelsior, 39-21, on the Youngstown "Y" floor last night. With Scullion and Ritchie each hooping 12 points, the locals took leads of 9-0, 18-3, and 24-14.

The Salem club's triumph was never in doubt as the Negro quintet failed to threaten seriously at any time in the game. The Quakers enjoyed their biggest spree in the fourth when they tallied 15 points to sew up the game. Strozzer and Whitehead led the Excelsior attack with seven points each.

Bob Ritchie and Bob Scullion each dropped in a dozen for the locals while Drakulich and Martinelli also looked good. Tonight they will meet the winner of the Struthers-Austintown Fifth game for the championship of the tournament.

They Get New Commands

Rear Admiral Andrews

Maj. Gen. Brett

Following news of General Douglas MacArthur's arrival in Australia to take over supreme command of all United Nations forces in that area comes the announcement of the appointment of Maj. Gen. George H. Brett of the U.S. Army as commander of the combined air forces of the United Nations in the western Pacific. Brett, 56, recently was deputy supreme commander of the United Nations forces in the southwest Pacific. At the same time, in the United States, Rear Admiral Adolphus Andrews, commandant of the Third Naval district, was named to the newly-created post of commander of the eastern sea frontier.

M'ARTHUR LAUDED BY AUSTRALIANS

Promises He'll Do Best To Carry Allied Cause To Success

army told the press that authorities had decided to lift the ban and give the public and officialdom alike an opportunity to greet MacArthur.

The spokesman said the authorities were yielding to the popular demand to see and greet the man whose closely guarded arrival in Australia stirred the popular imagination and lifted morale more than any happening since the war in the Pacific began.

Lifted By MacArthur
(The New York Times reported in a dispatch from Melbourne that the lid was lifted at the suggestion of General MacArthur himself.)
United States troops were drawn up as a guard of honor in an impressive greeting to their commander.

As MacArthur looked up and down the ranks, one section seemed to catch his attention particularly. It was a group of 10 Filipino soldiers in smart tropical military police uniforms with white helmets, white belts and white leggings.
They were men who had been wounded under his command in the Philippines, brought here by hospital ship, and only recently had been able to don their uniforms to march again.

MacArthur looked at them soberly, seemed about to speak, and then said simply to the guard officer: "Thank you, captain."

High American and Australian service chiefs were headed by Deputy Supreme Commander Lieut. Gen. George H. Brett and Vice Admiral Herbert Leary, commander of the combined naval forces in the Australian-New Zealand area.
On his schedule for today General MacArthur had conferences with

Tells of Sinking Jap Ships

Capt. Frank Kurtz as flyer and swimmer

One of America's war heroes, Capt. Frank Kurtz, former Olympic diving champion and at present aide-de-camp to Lieut. Gen. George H. Brett in Australia, tells a thrilling story of a small band of American flyers who fought a Far Eastern aerial war against the Japanese for three months. Kurtz, a friend of the late Capt. Colin P. Kelly, told an interviewer in Australia of participating in a successful raid by U. S. Flying Fortresses on Davao bay, on the Philippine island of Mindanao, and of sinking "at least six ships, all either heavy cruisers or battleships before we ran out of bombs."

Army Minister Francis M. Forde, Air Minister Arthur S. Drakeford and Navy Minister J. M. Making, as well as consultations with United States service chiefs.

AMAZING TREATMENT

For Temporary Constipation and Poor Appetite

Temporary constipation may make you feel miserable and experience much distress. Often the appetite lags because temporary constipation prevents the poisonous wastes from being eliminated from the system.

TONJON No. 1 with its herbal ingredients stimulates the bowels into activity making proper elimination possible and in turn increasing the appetite.

Information is given daily on this subject by our Special Representative at the Broadway-Lease Drug Store, Salem, Ohio. Caution: Always take TONJON according to the directions on the label.
